up the Maguates Can Stop It by Muking It a Part of the Players' Contract.—Ethiota Wants to Get on the National Board.—

A. G. Mills, ex-President of the National rue, who was one of the original framers of the national agreement, which is the bulwark of the game, is among those who advocate the great deal of experience with baseball mag-mates, and his views are based upon a knowledge of their methods. When asked yesterday by a reporter of THE SUN what would be a remthe existing troubles, Mr. Mills said: "As far as I have investigated the matter, and I have read the articles in THE SUN with a great deal of interest, it seems to me that the raceful behavior of their players on the field. The umpire question has alays been i supject for discussion ever since the National ague was organized. In 1878, at a meeting of that organization at Cleveland, the first move was made,by the magnates, including myself, the protection of umpires and increasing their power. In those days an umpire's time was taken up chiefly in watching the pitcher. who was compelled by the rules not to deliver the ball without keeping his hand below his shoulder. There was so much trouble over this point, and pitchers were so much inclined to in-dulge in the overhand delivery, that umpires severely handicapped in by being compelled to watch the twirlers. So 1878 I was one of the advocates of the rule that permitted the overhand delivery, and after a hard fight the League adopted it. ary reason for this was to give to the umpire but all the other players in the field, and to be so to speak, monarch of the diamond. The League then made it a point at all times to support the umpires in their rulings, for it was an ciated that if the players were permitted to run riot the game would lose its popularity, that time the umpire has had his annual troubles, and though the magnates have en savored to protect him, the players have gradualy been allowed to indulge in riot and disorder "In my opinion there is only one way to stop

Is trouble, and that is not only to forbid the players to kick, but to make it a condition of contracts which the players must be asked to sign. Of course, we all know that some magnates in the League are a little too much incline to support their players in protests against the umpire, for the reason that they believe their of the game want it. They think that by standing up for the rights of the people in heir cities they are only doing what is neces mary to further the interests of their clubs. But ey will look at the matter from a sportsman Mke standpoint they can hardly fail to see tha they are in the wrong. It may be possible that s few of these same magnates believe that kicking and rictous behavior on the part of their players serves them in the shape of an advertisement. The reports of disorder on the field as spread upon by some newspapers are possibly regarded by them as of so much attraction that the public will come to the grounds in larger numbers than if no trouble was heard of. As in all business the question of financial gain cuts quite a figure in the League, and all clubs want to win for that reason. It is, therefore, natural for some rather avaricious owners to support their players when the latter make excuses for defeats. I am a believer in lively baseball and in contests which show rivalry splirit and feeling. I like to see players display some interest in their team's efforts to win, but when they resort to shaking their fists in the unpire's face, to grabbing the umpire by the throat and threatening him with bodily harm and mob rule, it appears to me that in justice a few of these same magnates believe that kickand mob rule, it appears to me that in justice to the public and the self-respecting patrons of the game, the League should take summary ac-

The question of electing a member to the National Board in the place left vacant by the late C. H. Byrne has not been settled by the National League. C. H. Ebbets, President of the Brooklyn Club, said yesterday that he believed the place belonged by right to the Brooklyn Club until the present term of the board expired. Ebbets also stated that he would like to assume the duties of the position on the board, and from what he said the chances are that he will be backed up by other influential magastes. Ebbets has been so long identified with professional baseball and has learned the inside workings of the game so thoroughly from the late Mr. Byrne, that he would be able to begin work on the board with a thorough knowledge of the various entangling questions that have to be considered. Ebbets, who was quoted not long ago in THE SUN as being against gawdy ball, says that if every other club in the Brooklyns will play a clean game, regardless etconsequences. "I will not permit the Brooklyns to kick under any circumstances," said of consequences. "I will not permit the Brook-iris to kick under any circumstances," said he yesterday, "and if they disobey me they will be severely dealt with."

There is considerable fun making over the statement that Dixon has decided to fight 'Kid' Lavigne, the lightweight champion, the story goes that Lavigne has concluded to teduce himself to 128 pounds and Dixon will then consent to meet him. The also additionally surprising statement is made that Lavigne banned draw the color line because he has already "signed articles to fight Walcott." Lavigne banned draw the color line because he has already "signed articles to fight Walcott." Lavigne never drew the color line in his life, as his two hard fights with Walcott prove, and he would be in a laughable predicament if he drew the color line on Dixon, who, as everybody knows, decided long ago never to fight above 132 pounds again.

The Ataletic Committee at Harvard University has authorized Capt. Dibblee to appoint a representative of the Crimson to serve on the Youthali Rules Committee. In past meetings of this committee Harvard's interests have been looked after by Joseph H. Sears, ex-captain of the 'varsity team. Mr. Sears has always been a close student of football and has been instrumental in making many of the new rules which have served to place the game on its present algh plane of popularity. He has never failed to tare for Harvard's welfare, both on the committee and as a coach of the team, and local graduates hope that Capt. Dibblee will not make the mistake of selecting some one clee, who, though possibly as familiar with football rules as Sears, would go to the meeting lacking experience. Princeton will, as usual, send Alexander Moffatt, who was the head coach of the varsity eleven last fail and who has always been regarded as an expert rule maker. Yale, University of Pennsylvania, and Cornell will also send their old delegates, providing they can be Sears, would go to the meeting lacking experience. Princeton will, as usual, send Alexander Moffatt, who was the head coach of the varsity eleven last fall and who has always been reparded as an expert rule maker. Yale, University of Pennsylvania, and Cornell will also send their old delegates, providing they can serve, and Paul J. Dashiel of the United States Naval Academy will be the sixth member. Whatever changes may be made, it is said on pastly good authority that Yale and Princeton will be the originators of them, with Harvard giving ready assent. The suggestion of This Sow that the quarter back be allowed to run with the hall this year as soon as he shall receive it from the centre rush, is meeting with general favor, and it will be brought to the attention of the committee in a formal manner. Julian W. Curtiss said yesterday that he was in theyor of having Yale back up the suggestion for the reason that he thought it would help to make the game more interesting and cause many many areas formations behind the line Every they reason that he thought it would help to make the game more interesting and cause many new formations behind the line. Every football man who has been asked for his opinion on this point has expressed no reasons for sustaining the old rule. On the contrary, experts believe that it will do no harm for the committee to make a trial of such a rule next fail, and them if it does not work successfully abolish it. Another change that will be considered by the committee is the question of a penaity for off side play or foul tactics, when one team is within five yards of another's goal line. According to the present rule the penalty under such directions to be particularly severe, providing the team defending the goal commits the offence. It is thought that instead of inflicting an immediate penaity, a rule empowering the unpire or referee to warn offenders once may be adopted.

The contest for the Phænix Quarterly Cup was the feature of the day's shooting of the Phoenix Gun Club at the Dexter Park traps yesterday. Nine of the most expert marksmen in the organization compoted in this event, which was won rather easily by A. Botty, who grassed fourteen. His nearest com-petitors were E. Madison and J. An Exciting Contest at Nutley-Two Club Want the Women's Cham

The week ending yesterday at the Nutley Golf Club brought out some fine golf, for, with the exception of one stormy day, the course was it good order. The qualifying rounds for the championship cup developed the closest contest ever held on the links in the match between F. V. Johnson and Edgar Sergeant, in which wenty-two holes had to be played before either could claim the victory. An eighteen-hole match protracted to twenty holes is not unusual after a tie, but to be so evenly matched usual after a tie, but to be so evenly matched that twenty-two holes is necessary is a rare incident in golf and almost a record. In this instance Johnson had the better luck, or at least the most endurance, and was the winner. Other results in this round were that Clark beat Morgan by 2 up and Morgan beat Clark by 3 up and 2 to play. In the somi-final rounds for the Morgan Cup, Larkin, conceding six strokes, beat Dorr by 7 up and 6 to play, and Michael, giving five strokes, beat Morgan by 2 up and 1 to play.

Westchester have each filed applications for the women's championship, and, so far, they are women's championship, and, so far, they are the only clubs to ask for the privilege in the metropolitan district. The U.S. G.A. will make no mistake in awarding the event to either applicant. In the number of women players the Ardsley Club may have a slight advantage, although if the Country Club has not as many fair goifers it has certainly the most skilful ones. Among the latter's players are Miss Beatrix Hoyt, the champion; Mrs. W. Butler Duncan, Jr., Mrs. E. C. Potter, Mrs. W.H. Sands, Miss Waterbury, and many other experts. The leaders in the Ardsley set are Mrs. A. De Witt Cochrane, Miss Lillian Brooks, and Mrs. F. L. Eldridge, but they are hardly in the cham plouship class.

On Saturday next H. P. Toler and James A. Tyng will meet the professionals, Horace Rawlins and Willie Anderson, in a foursome. It is not known on which of the two Lakewood links the contest will be played. It has been arranged as a test of skill between the amateurs and the Toler is now playing the game of his life, and Tyng is also in shape, so that the match is ex-pected to be a clinker.

SPECULATIVE BACE PROMOTERS

congue Members Likely to Call a Malt at the National Assembly Strong Opposition Against the Monopoly of Destrable Bates -The Castet Scheme Arouses Criticism.

The increased interest in bicycle racing is fur dahing some complicated problems for the L. A. W. to solve at the annual meeting next month. The League assumes to control both mateur and professional riders throughout the Inited States, but some of its oldest members rankly predict that, unless a reorganization of its racing government is brought about, the conrol of the sport will pass out of its hands. The national officers of the League characterize the acing department as one of the least im portant in the organization, in spite of the supporting sections of the League, and that it keeps the organization constantly in touch with the public. Wheelmen who have een watching the movements of the racing and track associations and the professional riders, express the belief that the combination is be oming too strong for the L. A. W. It develops that the racing associations are controlling all the big American riders and placing them under contract to ride exclusively at meets promoted under their auspices. Overtures have also been made to foreign riders on the same plan. The idea is for the racing associations to get a "corner" on the big riders and hold them for their own race meets, to the disadvan tage of the club promoters and to the genera weekly retainers to the men and match them n races for big purses at different intervals throughout the season. It was reported yesterlay that one association has Michael, Chase, Linton, Taylor, Huret, and Staubach under con tract for this year. A cycle track syndicat sent a representative abroad last week to engage half a dozen of the best foreign riders wh would consent to come to this country and ride exclusively at one track. It is expected that the action of the race promoters in adopting means to secure a monopoly of the big racers will seriously affect the general racing interests.

ing means to secure a monopoly of the big racers will seriously affect the general racing interests. If the L. A.W. countenances two or three associations controlling all the star riders, the promotion of racing will in all probability pass out of the sphere of the bicycle clubs entirely and into the hands of speculative promoters.

The clubs are naturally rebellious at the condition of affairs, and they declare that it is high time the League should take some stand to govern racing on stricter lines and to protect the clubs. Interest in racing is now reported to be on the decline in Paris, owing to its promotion by associations formed purely to run the sport for revenue. It is expected that the same conditions will develop in this country if the promoters receive too much leeway. Another objectionable feature that confronts the clubs this year is the independence of the racing men. While it is contrary to the League rules for riders to exact appearance money from clubs for riding at meets, the leading men on the circuit last vear are charged with this offence. The big riders make it a practice to promise to ride at a fixed meet and then withhold their entries until the club offers some financial inducement. It is amatter of record that the big riders formed a combination last senson to boycot the National and Springfield meets on an alleged grievance that the purses were too amail. The riders eventually weakened and rode at both meets, but it is evident that they need to be kept under gregulations for the proper conduct of the sport is imperative. Since the retirement of H. E. Raymond and George D. Gideon from the management of the racing interests of the L. A. W. It has been a matter of conducted on lines strict enough to earn the respect of the professional riders and the recognition of the racing associations.

Attention was called by The Sun on Tuesday

Attention was called by THE SUN on Tuesday to the trouble likely to arise from the award of sanctions by the L.A. W. this year, and as a consequence the bicycle clubs are greatly dissanctions by the L.A. W. this year, and as a consequence the bicycle clubs are greatly disturbed over the situation. Among the local clubs that propose to hold race meets are the Harlem, Riverside, Kings County, and South Brooklyn Wheelmen. These clubs, realizing the demand that has been made by track associations and owners for dates, are uneasy as to what recognition the L.A. W. will accord to the cycling clubs. The situation has been widely discussed this week, and local clubmen feel that trouble will result unless the L.A. W. is disposed to show a preference for the bona fide blcycle clubs in the matter of sanctions. It is the unanimous verdict that bicycle clubs whose interests are devoted to the promotion of general cycling are more deserving of recognition than associations promoting races as a business enterare more deserving of recognition than asso-ciations promoting races as a business enter-prise. The L.A. W. officials in this State will nall probability be called upon to present the claims of the bicycle clubs to the National Rac-ing Board for consideration in priority to the claims of race associations.

The amendment to be offered at the annual neeting of the L. A. W. providing for the creation of a junior membership in the League is propoking considerable discussion among the big tion of a junior membership in the League is provoking considerable discussion among the big divisions. The idea has received strong indersement, but objection ts ralsed to some of the restrictions embodied in the amendment. The new law will make riders between the ages of 12 and 18 years eligible to the junior class provided that their parents or guardians are regular members of the L. A. W. It is proposed to grant League privileges to the juniors only when they are accompanied by a regular League member. Regarding the objections, Mr. Clarke of Staten Island, who originated the idea of a junior membership, says that the restriction limiting eligibility to juniors whose parents or suardians are members of the League is framed with the object of insuring a guarantee of their character and good conduct. He affirms that the features of the membership that are criticised have been introduced with the object of keeping a close watch on the junior members.

The Racing Board of the L. A. W. will have to broaden its regulations on the value of prizes in professional races this year, or else the plans of some of the race promoters will nave to be cancelled.

The competition among race promoters this year will be keen, and racing men will naturally patronize meets where the most liberal purses are offered. One association has under consideration a raise in prize values to $150 for firsts. $100 for seconds, and $75 for thirds. The limit eration a raise in prize values to $100 for arms, $100 for seconds, and $75 for thirds. The limit on the value of prizes is now $100, according to the L. A. W. rules, and prizes of greater value can only be offered by special sanction.

This sanction was granted indiscriminately last year, and the race promoters are planning to go ahead and arrange for purses in excess of the L. A. W. rules regardless of any steps that the League may have in contemplation.

Chairman Mott of the L. A. W. Racing Board ssued the following bulletin yesterday: issued the following bulletin yesterday:

The Crescent Wheelmen, Plainfield, will be refused sanctions pending the settlement of certain claims. For fallure to return a prise after repeated notice to do so, J. H. Mason, Erie, P.a., is suspended from track and road racing to Jan. 29, 1899, and ruled off all L. A. W. tracks in any capacity.

Chairman Sullivan has sent a special notification to all the members of the committee, instructing them to distribute at once in their respective territories official notices requiring all amateur baseball players to register. Sanction must henceforth be received for baseball games under the same rules that are now in operation among basketball players.

Bartow S. Weeks of 100 Broadway, the metropolitan representative of the committee, is arranging for an amateur baseball championship in this district, and a schedule on similar lines is proposed for the outlying districts. The winners in each district will be probably brought together to play for a national championship trophy. The scheme is likely to find favor with genuine amateur teams, but the "amachoors" who have been raking off a fair liveliheed are expected to make a determined kick against the saw platform.

Amnteurs Resent the Interference of the A. A

If the views of several of the best-known amount teur billiard players of the city are correct the project of the managers of the A. A. U. te take ficial control of amateur hilliard contests in this city is not received in the spirit that is cal culated to attain success or win the cooperation of the amateur stars. Opposition to the plan has been brought to a decided head by the official announcement issued on Tuesday by the committee that has in charge the registration of amateurs to the effect that the players who have entered the intercity amateur handicap tournament booked to take place at Maurice from all participation in the championship tour Knickerbocker A. C., and that consequently they will lose their title to rank as amateurs. The reason for this extreme penalty as an nounced is that the interclub handleap tournament has not received the sanction of the A. A. U.

The ukase of the committee has created a great

A. A. U.

The ukase of the committee has created a great stir among these anisteurs, and they talked yesterday of an open revolt. One of them, who belongs to several German social clubs, said that no amateur of standing would justify the open attack made by the A. A. U. on the handicap tournament. This has been an annual event, in which the championahip has never been involved, and which has been simply a friendly but interesting contest in the interest of billiards and separated entirely from rival businces interests. He further said that the preliminary tourney the A. A. U. had arranged to hold during the recent Sportamen's Show had falled simply because the A. A. U. had started it in a dictatorial spirit.

Several of the men entered in the Daly handicap announced yesterday that they would not play in the A. A. U. championship scratch tourney at all unless the managers of the latter organization withdraw from a position which they declare was not in keeping with the gentlemanly spirit that should actuate a representative amateur association. They insist upon their right to play in the annual intercity handican, the same that is enjoyed by any club members in club contests. Maurice Daly was stonished at the announcement of the A. A. U. astonished at the announcement of the A. A. U. He said:

"This tournament is held simply to give entertainment to the boys. They organize it themselves. It is not designed to compete with any tournament that the A. A. U. may hold, and I am at a loss to understand how the Union can disqualify any player if he competes. That would be manifestly unjust, and I do not think that the organization would be guilty of injustice when the best interests of a fine sport are involved." The handicap has been postponed until after the Schaefer-Slosson match on Feb. 5.

on the Disqualified Water Polo Players. The fact of the Registration Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union having disqualified the oarsmen who took part in a water pole match held without A. A. U. sanction last Friday evening does not in any respect debar then from taking part in any or all of the rowing A. tion Committee of the A. A. U., in speaking o the matter to a reporter of The Sun, said that while the committee had no control over rowing, it had over water polo and swimming, and it was for invading this field without sanction that the Atalanta and San Remo men were disqualified. In future, he said, those men would be barred from all amateur sports which the A. A. U. controlled, and, furthermore, the A. A. U. would continue to disqualify all those who took part in the series of championship games scheduled by the water polo league formed by the boat clubs. Mr. Sullivan was asked how this would affect the members of the New York A. C. who would have to compete in the Harlem regatta next spring with these disqualified men. He replied that the disqualification did not affect the rowing at all, but held good in all other branches of amateur sport.

Fred Fortmeyer, Secretary of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, was seen by a reporter of THE SUN in regard to the matter, and was very emphatic in his announcement that the action of the A. They are well engaged in stake events, especially in the East, and Sloan will probably be kept busy in return for his con-tract salary of $12,000. Tod has not yet decided

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26.-Jockey Combs gave an exhibition this afternoon of how a rider can ose a race when he has it won. Combs rode Par Morrissey, who made his first appearance at the meeting. The horse was backed from 15 to 1 to 5 to 1, and the ring and outside poolrooms to 5 to 1, and the ring and outside poolrooms stood to lose $50,000 on him. Combs got away second and, assuming command, opened up a gap of a few lengths, which he maintained until within twenty yards of the wire. Then he cased the gelding up and was raced out at the post by Mazeppa. There was a how! from the grand stand over the jockey's carelessness, but, as it was stupidity on his part, the judges could take no action. Summaries:

The broomball contest at the Ice Palace last night attracted more than 1,000 spectators. The game is practically a burlesque on hockey. It is played with a football, each contestant being armed with an ordinary broom instead of the regulation hockey stick. The teams last night were composed of seven men each, coatumed in red and black, representing respectively the Carnival Club and the Ice Palace Club. The game was won by the latter by a score of 1 to 0. Play began shortly before it o'clock, and for several minutes the football was kept near the blacks' goal. Renner finally captured it, and despite the efforts of the Carnival team to stop his drive, he scored the first goal. During the scound part of the game Renner made a drive for the reds' goal, and would have scored but for the fact that the post was placed at an angle and the ball carromed sway. It is played with a football, each contestant be POCORECEPSIE, Jan. 26 .- The mild winters of late ears and the lack of good ice has had a discouraging effect on ice yachting in the middle Hudson district, so much so that the Carthage Landing Club, one of the best along the Hudson, has disbanded, and it is doubtful if it will be reorganized again. The Carthage fleet in-ludes twenty-six boats, carrying from 250 to 700 square feet of sail. The Hudson R ver fee Yacht Club, the largest in the country, with headquarters at Krum Eitow, a few miles north of this city, has had only two or three days sailing this winter, and the sport was then confined to second-class boats.

There was a big reunion of handball experts at the rooklyn Club's court yesterday afternoon and some interesting exhibitions resulted. The Hamlet of the combination. Phil Casey, was forced to remain behind the scenes wrestling with a severe cold. For weeks Casey, with Tommy Dunne as partner, has been de figured on the losing side. This fact led many of the ing to the front and crowding Jimmy off his pedes-
